Sidney James Smith (1939-2024) Dip AD NDD. He studied at Birmingham College of Art from 1956-1960, then North Staffordshire (Stoke) College of ceramics from 1960-1961. He worked as a designer in the pottery industry from 1961-1967, then from 1967-1976 he was a lecturer in art, design and ceramics. From 1976, he worked solely as a studio potter and painter, initially based in Orkney, where he worked and lived until 2010. He then semi-retired, continuing to live and work in Buckie, North-East Scotland from 2010-2023. Sid, otherwise known by his family as Yendis, was deeply passionate about working with clay. He spent many hours at the pottery wheel and often worked late into the night, carefully nursing his kiln to the required temperature. His love of the outdoors and nature inspired his work throughout his life.
